Small experiences combine to develop a unique personality.

Two different facets of school life meet when Anita Grim, president of SCA and Bruce Mannon, co-captain of the football team, discuss the ups and downs of senior life.

Flowing like the meandering stream, moving smoothly through the middle of the stream, gushing over the jagged rocks of a new course as we cut a place for ourselves.

Like a meandering stream one takes the easiest way out. Afraid to face the rocky shoals. Seeking the path of least involvement. Satisfied with a smaller stream and fewer eddies. Always aware of the struggle in more turbulent water.

Dale Young waits patiently for Bradley Wade to get to the punch line.

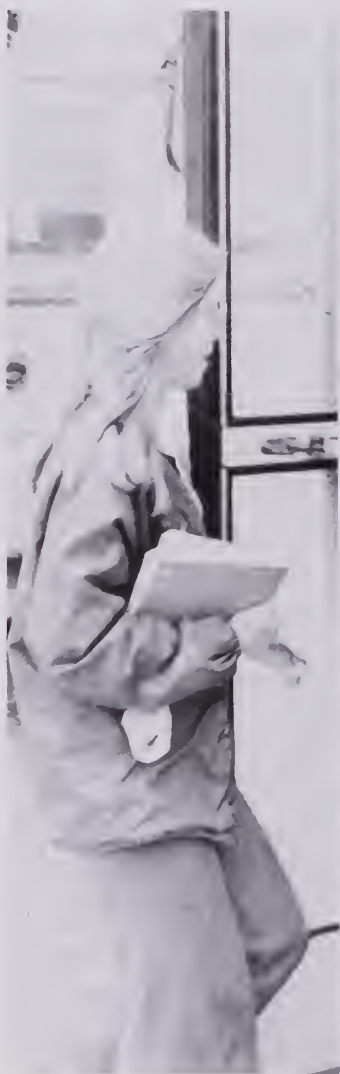

Studying is the purpose of a study hall, but not always the activity taking place.

The lobby is a place for conversation and an intermingling between students and faculty.

Perhaps the visitor isn't intelligent, but at least he's quiet.

At the end of a long day students board the bus for the long ride home.

Leaving a pep rally finds the crowd in a mass of confusion.

In the mass of swirling confusion, one searches for inner peace, for an identity, for true meaning from the tiny experiences of everyday.

Some spectators seem elated that Floyd has just scored and others seem mildly interested.

Oblivious to surroundings, Carol Hollandsworth becomes engrossed with her book.

Seemingly ready for some mischief, Nathan Phillips is stopped just in time.

Often one rushes so carelessly to reach a goal that one misses life around them and becomes unaware of faces and personalities that make up life.

Performing on stage builds self confidence and poise.

From each turbulence encountered, each rocky course when one is battered, emerges growth and maturity.

Being crowned homecoming queen is a special memory for Wanda Roop.

School is a place not only for educational growth but also spiritual growth.

Recognizing the need to work diligently, Collette Phillips settles to the task before her.

"I never say anything, just sit and watch." Mr. Robert Peak

Only when all people join hands and work together will life become a peaceful flow.

With maturity one finds new channels to pursue and in a thoughtful, reflective mood finds success and peace.

PAUSE MOMENTARILY And FIND DIRECTION

During quiet moments of reflection one can enjoy today and plan for tomorrow before being swept into the rapids.

Few students find time for thought at FCHS but occasionally one has to pause and take time to reflect.

SPORTS

To a person who doesn't play football, it's hard to explain the emotions, hopes, and despairs involved in being out on the field giving your all. It's hard to explain the thoughts — one after another — before the game as you begin getting nervous thinking of the many things that could happen — good and bad. You've practiced throughout the week getting bumps, bruises, cuts, and broken bones. The preparation begins on Monday, is being finalized tonight. Football is more than the band, the crowd, or cheerleaders; more than shiny uniforms and two hours of performance.

It's feeling butterflies when you get dressed and being so nervous and tense that you think you can't stand it. It's feeling like you're gonna explode. Then the game begins and with the opening plays everything falls into place. The band and crowd fade and you become aware only of the game.

Man, that crowd, there's just never too many people there. It's just a feeling of knowing they're there and someone really cares about how well you do. You've got to win for them. The support of the students, band, cheerleaders, and fans have biggest effect of anything.

Emotions constantly change even after the game begins. It's hard to believe you've made that touchdown until everyone is around you, congratulating, screaming for joy. Always, there is either the elation of extreme joy of winning or the anger and pain of seeing the opponents carry the ball over the line. The game too often ends after weeks of hard work and sweat drinking from the stinging cup of defeat, with that horrible sunken feeling that you've let everyone down.

But the season continues and with each game, there is the hope that tonight the glory of winning will be yours. It seems when you win nothing can go wrong. You feel like pinching yourself to see if it's real.

Whether you win or lose, you have done it together, for one player can't win a game it takes a team effort.

You remember the joy and excitement of victory and the sadness of defeat; the times you loved and the times you hated. You have contributed much to the school spirit, and you will remember the emotions involved in representing the black and gold of FCHS.

Robert Weeks

spirit flows with Varsity

Learning that cheering was for losers as well as winners was one important factor to this year's Varsity cheerleaders. Although there were many hassles during the season, these cheerleaders lived thru them with the vision of their Varsity letter in their heads.

Sheree Young a hard worker and a great poster maker.

Karen Wimmer; co-captain Sandra Lovitt; captain shared views and responsibilities thruout the cheerleading season.

Mary Pratt; the split is one of her specialties.

Robin Conner; frustrated, but still spirited.

Pom pom routines were a regular occurrence during football season.

Debbie Martin; her first and last year cheering for FCHS as the only senior on the squad.

Pam Rumburg; enjoying cheering and looking forward to lettering.

Glenna Turpin; always peppy says, "Buffs are DY-NO-MITE!"

Avis Shockley; "It's a lot of fun, but hard work, too."

Dolly Phillips; always willing to give 100% in spite of basketball wounds etc. . .

Under the supervision and criticism of Mrs. Rakes, the J.V. sponsor, these girls worked for spirit with friendliness and responsibility. Fighting for changes that seldom occurred and practicing new stunts and routines were a beginning of the long, winding stream to a little bit of recognition and a lot of self-satisfaction of being part of the great flow of spirit at FCHS.

Smile "Minnie Brute!"

Eighth grade cheerleaders faces hold different expressions during a basketball game.

"Two bits, four bits, six bits, a dollar. All for the Buffaloes stand up and holler." The eighth grade cheerleaders started with familiar cheers and soon graduated to more complex routines. They gained valuable experience in performing before a crowd and leading their team's spirit.

1974 was only the second year for FCHS girl's varsity basketball team, but they gave us all something to be proud of, much more than a high win/loss record. The team was unsurpassed in their show of spirit, sportsmanship, teamwork and cooperation.

The girls often faced torrential streams of battle on the court; seldom did the game flow smoothly. They were dashed against the rocks of defeat, but they had their time in the winner's circle. The team, as well as the school, was always proud, no matter what the score, proud to know they had tried and given FCHS their best.

Girls Lack Winning Season, But Keep Spirit

A jump ball is called between Rosemary Spangler and a Christiansburg player.

A tired but eager Buff team huddles to plan strategy.

Before the final game, the team celebrates Anita Grim's birthday.

"School support was fantastic, and we, as members of the team, really appreciated it."

Rosemary Spangler

One coach, two managers and eleven girls willfully gave their time in hours of practice. Every member should be recognized individually for her effort and talent, but junior Kathy Quesenberry and newcomer Rosemary Spangler were the outstanding scorers. Captain Janet Agee, and co-captain Anita Grim did a fine job of leading the team to their 2-7 record with the guidance of Coach Sandy Mills.

It was a stormy year for the Buffaloes. The loss of five outstanding seniors last year was a handicap. Midway through the season, Kathy Quesenberry fractured an arm. Many of our girls were beginners, but everyone sacrificed to make '74 a good season.

Almost overpowered, Janet Agee tries to give the ball to teammate Anita Grim.

Manager Loretta Simpkins appears to be praying for victory as Teresa Nester puts down another score.

The referee calls another jump as a Christiansburg player falls to the floor.

Radford runner stopped after a short gain by tough Buffalo secondary.

Tough Buffaloes Dillard Reynolds and Mike Nolen stifle the Radford runner.

In perfect step, quarterback Bruce Mannon and mascot Mike Bishop run onto field.

Hampered by injuries and by a lack of experience, the Buffaloes had a disappointing season with a record of 1-9-1. Only twelve players returned from last year and of these only four had any real playing experience. Early in the season Allan Stuart was injured followed by Steve Surbaugh, Matt Stiles, and Danny Boothe. Despite these handicaps, the team was a good one. They got it all together on that memorable night of Oct. 11 and upset highly favored Narrows. In the game against the Green Wave, the Buffs showed what teamwork, and determination can accomplish. They played the game the way it should be played. Bruce Mannon threw three touchdown passes in that game alone. The first completed field goal in New River District was kicked by Dillard Reynolds and we came away with a score higher than any we had previously scored in New River games.

Season records were broken by Robert Weeks while Bruce Mannon fell just one short of breaking a record with 9 touchdown passes. These feats show that even discouraged Buffaloes don't quit. Defense and offense were led respectively by Nathan Phillips and Bruce Mannon. Dedication and determination were strong but we couldn't get the scores on the board. Six seniors leave the team this year. Twenty one players return. They have profitted much from their playing experiences this year and next year holds promise.

Weeks Named Defensive Player

"I'd like to thank all the coaches for the many memories that I'll always cherish in years to come.

Robert Weeks

Take 170 pounds of determination an unconquerable winning attitude and outstanding ability combine them and you have Robert Weeks who was named defensive player of the week by the ROANOKE TIMES.

This honor was due to his exceptional performance against Narrows. He was credited with 8 tackles, two assists, and two fumble recoveries as well as completing two touchdowns passes. He was definitely a leader on the varsity team and displayed his leadership in breaking the scoring record of FCHS.

Robert Weeks scores on Giles Special, favorite play of the Buffaloes.

Blacksburg defenders bury Buffalo back soon after handoff.

Scooting outside, Kenneth Tolbert goes for long yardage.

Homecoming Fans See Buffs Tie

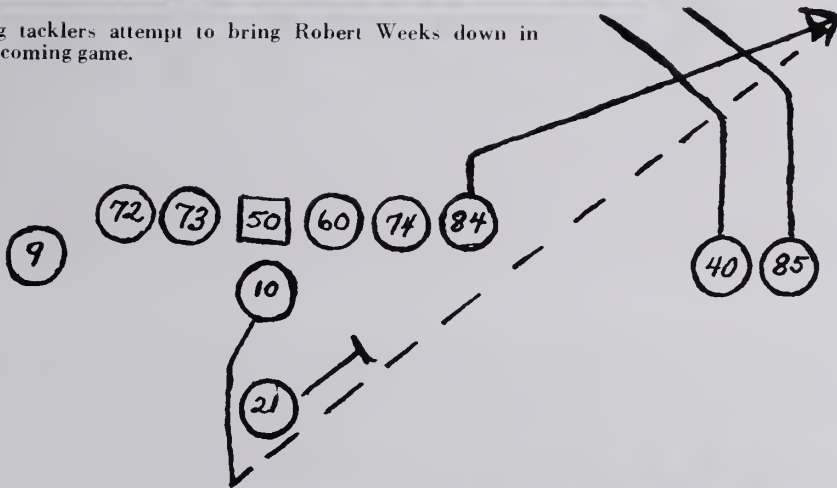

Floyd dominated play for three quarters during the Homecoming game October 4 against Christiansburg, yet the game ended in a disappointing tie. Lewis Stuart led the Buffaloes with 173 yards rushing, a total exceeding the entire C'burg team's offensive rushing. Bruce Mannon completed two touchdown passes, one a 41 yd. bomb to William Helms, and the other to Robert Weeks on the play called the "Giles Special."

The Buffaloes played a good game, but a few bad breaks kept them from getting a homecoming victory.

"I gave my back for Floyd."
Steve Surbaugh

C'burg tacklers attempt to bring Robert Weeks down in Homecoming game.

This play was put in before the Giles game and quickly became known as the Giles Special. It succeeded each of the seven times it was run.

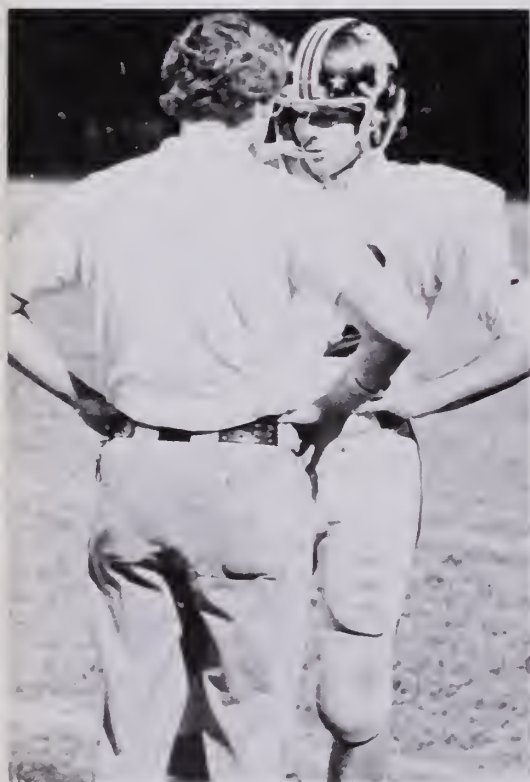

Inexperience Handicaps Buffaloes

"It was a big disappointment to have such a fine attitude toward winning, to have it lost after our first game. I feel the main factor of our season was a lack of experience."

Bruce Mannon

J.V.'s Show Improvement As Season Progresses

The ragged looking, inexperienced Freshman dominated team that began practice in August was not the same at the end of the season. As each week progressed so did the JV team and every day they showed improvement. Their success or failure should not be judged entirely on their record of 2-6 but rather their improvement. Hard work, dedication and a growing maturity made this in many ways a successful JV season and points toward a promising future.

Baby Buffs End Season 2-3-2

"I am proud to be a coach at Floyd County High School."
Coach Harmon

After getting off to a slow start at home against Giles, the Baby Buffs came back strong to hand a stunning defeat to Radford. This victory may have lulled the eighth graders to sleep against Galax as they trailed the Maroon Tide at half-time 14-0. But the young men realized their talents the second half and roared back to tie the game. They kept their momentum against Christiansburg. The team turned the Baby Demons aback in a well played game by a score of 20-

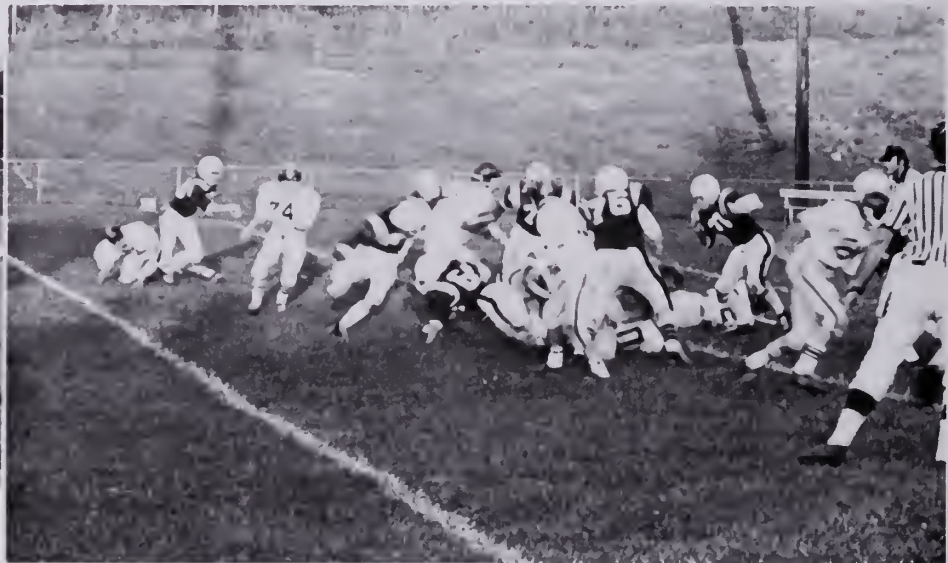

12. Due to a two week span without a game and the loss of players to injuries, the Baby Buffs were not ready for a good Blacksburg team. The last two games were on the road and the Buffs tied Wytheville and lost to a fired up Narrows Green Wave.

The Baby Buffs showed a great deal of the winning spirit and enthusiasm which it takes to be a winner, and FCHS will hear a lot more of it from these young men in the near future.

The Whistle Sounds, The Season Starts

Stopping short, Bruce Mannon seeks an opening inside.

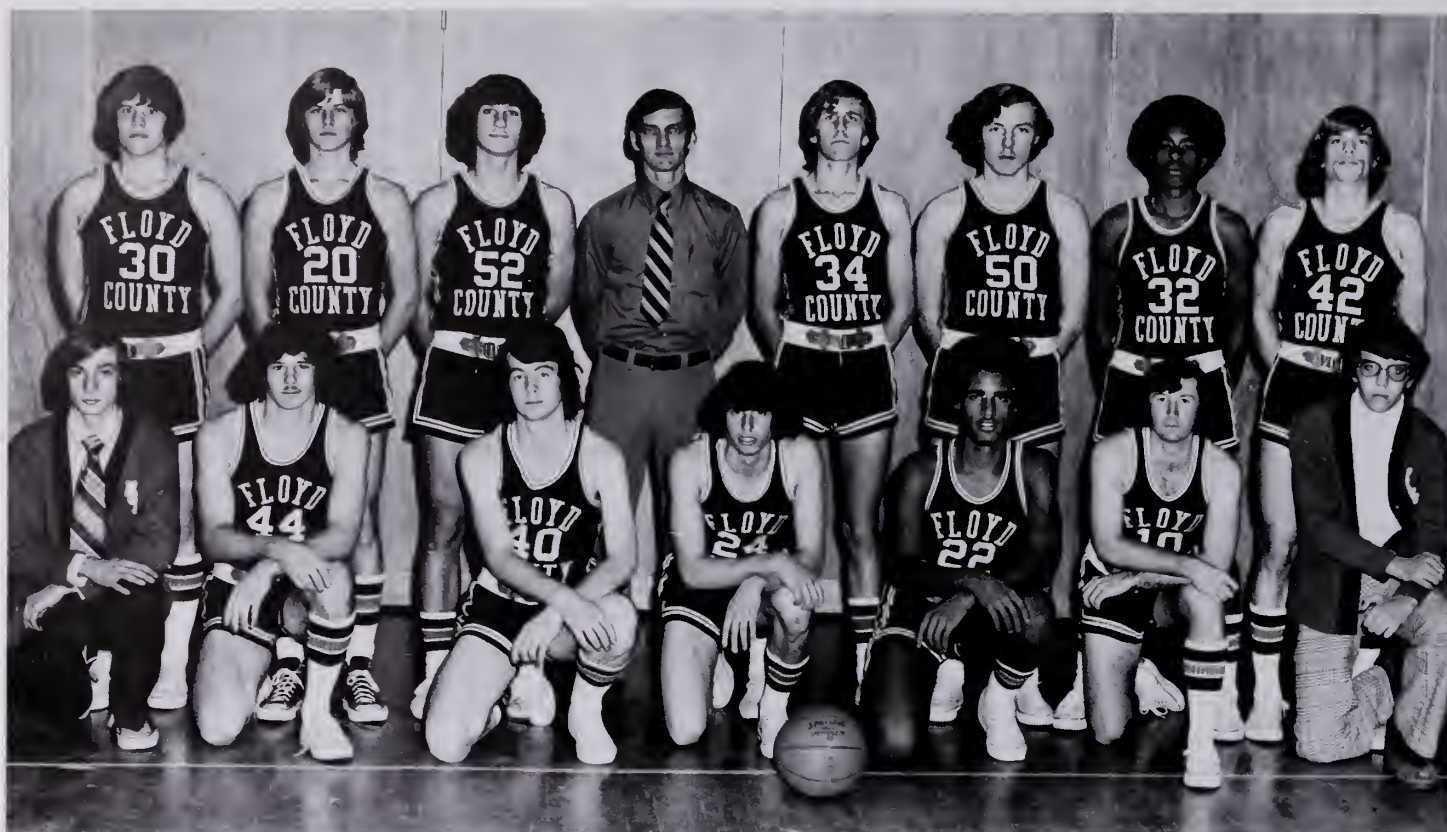

Demon No. 22 moves to intercept a Mannon to Weeks pass.

"Inexperience caused by last year's graduation led to a disappointing early season."

David Kelly

A bounce pass under the arms of Demon No. 34 seems to be in order for Glenn Whitsett.

David Kelly "stops and pops" from the top of the key. Meanwhile Coby Farmer moves in to rebound if necessary.

A team with 9 seniors out of thirteen players would not normally be thought of as inexperienced. But that was the case this year. Several of the players had little or no previous experience.

There were some bright spots however, as several players showed great improvement over the season and a few, including Coby Farmer, played consistently good ball. Coach Bishop admitted that there had not been as much improvement as he had hoped for but a new game plan late in the season helped keep us in several ball games.

Bobcat center 53 gains the upperhand on Coby Farmer, while Bruce Mannon readies himself to move for the ball.

William Via arches one over the outstretched hands of Indian 41 and hopes for a two pointer.

A futile attempt is made to stop the upward progress of Lewis Stuart.

"Some of the players have been coming around but we needed it much sooner."
Coach Bishop

Slower Pace Improves Late Season Games

"The games that we did lose were due to the fact that we weren't really ready."

Freddie Claytor

A one word summary of the J.V. season was "disappointment." The team lost a couple of heart breakers including a quadruple overtime to Carroll County. However, a team does not fare poorly without reasons. Inexperience, plague of the varsity, has struck again. The team was made up of freshmen for the most part and sophomore experience was badly needed.

William Via's mid-season move to varsity added to this problem. Although Coach Shull was definitely disappointed, he also stated that the team had shown much improvement as the season progressed.

8th Grade Record Eases Sting Of JV Losses

Outreaching Bobcat No. 31, Ervin Martin, puts the Buffs back on the offensive.

Kneeling: Lawrence Kidd, Coach "Buddy" Shull, Stewart Shank. Standing: Andy Atkins, David Boothe, Sammy Hale, Curtis Burke, Steve Janey, David Baker, Harvey Marshall, Freddie Claytor, Ervin Martin, Gino Williams, Howard Conduff, Larry Goad.

The ball is needed to break a tie so Jimmy Vest works hard to get it back.

With a 7-3 record, the eighth grade managed to be the most successful of the three teams. Coach Harmon attributed their success to a good attitude and refusal to quit working hard in both practice and games. Sandlot seems to have helped also. The success of the 8th grade team should point to brighter years ahead for the J.V. and Varsity.

"The team never slacked up or quit in practice or games."
Coach Harmon

The Green Wave is ready to rebound if the unique style of Kevin Vest fails.

To score, you have to bring the ball down court. Howard Conduff does the job.

Going Up, Jonnie Turner concludes a fast break.

Strong Teamwork Produces Wins

Baseball is a mixture of individual and team sport. The FCHS team possessed an ability to put both types of performance together. Always a contender in the New River District, we placed second and earned a berth in regional competition. A good team batting average backed by an excellent mound staff provided needed runs and prevented scores by the opposition. Seniors and underclassmen alike saw a lot of action.

"From the beginning of practice, I had confidence we would have a winning season."

Tennis Players Gain Experience Golf Team Brings Home Wins

GOLF: A Fairly experienced team cashed in on practice and hard work for a good season with a 4-3 record. Team members "putt" in lots of time at Great Oaks with the team and individually.

Losing only one man, Ricky Vest, next year's team should be amply led by rising seniors, Jim Casteel and Roger Hollands-worth.

TENNIS: Early in the season, a hair-length controversy deprived the team of several of the top players. Only a few people with previous experience played, causing the team to be plagued with inexperience throughout the season. Although no matches were won, improvement could be seen as the year progressed. With more experience going into next season, things should look up.

"Our overall record was good but individual inexperience held us back."

Jim Casteel

"A lack of spirit and unity as a team hurt us a lot."

James Weeks

Girls Break In To New River District Competition; Boys Are Consistent With A Good Record

Another milestone was reached in Women's Lib when girls were allowed to enter inter-mural competition in track. Exercise and long hours of practice meant they had to give up some relaxation time but the girls worked hard and proved that they are physically and mentally able to compete in all sports.

In Boy's track, Tony Stuart, who tied two school records, the high jump and 330 yd. hurdles, won the M.V.P. award. Other notable team members were Kenneth Tolbert who placed 4th in the District and second in the Region, and Glenn Whitsett, who placed 5th in district high jump. Don McAlexander won the most improved player award.

Clearing the bar easily in early competition, Lisa Kitts warms up for the greater heights to come.

With a face marked by eagerness and strain, sprinter Bink Tolbert approaches the tape.

A major contender for Floyd in field events is Diane Mayberry, building up momentum to throw the discus record setting distances.

150 Girls Participate in Volleyball Intramurals

This year volleyball intramurals came through with an overwhelming turnout. 150 girls, forming 11 teams joined the competition for practice, exercise and good old fun.

Faculty members also formed a team in an effort to develop a better repertoire with students and prove their diverse talents.

The matches held after school were highly competitive with several excellent teams in the running for the championship. Champions had not been chosen by press time for the Bison.

Tennis intramurals were held in the fall with good participation. Pam Lineberry was winner in the senior division and Joy Bond won the Junior division.

PEOPLE

As I look back over my years at FCHS, I first think of the many people I have come to know and associate with during five very important years of my life.

Many teachers have given so much of their time trying to educate me. They have always been eager to help me understand when confused; encouraged me to participate when unwilling, and encouraged me to try harder where I failed. To the, I am grateful.

Of greatest importance to me are the friends I have made. Some have become very close and intimate, others just friendly friends, and some I know only by name and face. We've experienced the dull and exciting moments at FCHS together. The willingness to help each other in all situations from classwork to personal problems has always been present. As I reminisce about these moments we've shared, from happiness to disappointments, I realize how much I have matured through these experiences with others. The years which I thought as an eighth-grader would be a long life-time, have actually passed rapidly.

There were times when I sincerely doubted that I would reach a moment in my life when I could say, "these were the best years of my life," but now I actually regret being a senior.

Sherri Whitlock

We entered our last year with excitement and expectancy — a dream had come true. We were seniors. Yet even as our hopes soared, a new fear crept in. This fear went unrecognized and was often lost as we got swept up in the current of last year activities. In the present world situation, we had much to fear, economic conditions made jobs scarce, an energy crisis was present and there were problems in government. And we were entering a world where new responsibilities faced us. We became aware of the stony paths we might take, the turbulence we might encounter but as always we went forth with our hopes, and dreams that we could create a better tomorrow.

The rush, the disorder and simplicity of our high school years are over. Now, as we enter the adult world to a new type of responsibility, we look back — and remember our year at FCHS, 1975.

Floyd County High School, for five years we have walked your halls. Sometimes we looked down on you, sometimes we have respected you, but now we look back. We have been proud of what you stood for, thankful for what you gave us. We have proudly worn your colors of black and gold through our losses and through our triumphs.

We will remember the good times, the prom, the homecoming, and the time we wasted goofing-off in the halls or cutting classes. We'll remember a few bad times, the loss of an important game, or flunking a test, as well as when we got caught goofing-off in the halls or cutting classes.

To those still trudging toward the ultimate goal of being a senior in high school, we remind them, when you stand in our place, as seniors of F.C.H.S. your graduation may not be all that you dreamed about.

We realize that what we are leaving is irreplaceable. Perhaps we regret the time spent complaining. Perhaps we wish we had spent more time correcting faults.

To those who have guided us through these years, we say thanks. Thanks for the responsibility you gave us that we really didn't want. Thanks for the advice, the experience and the discipline.

Placing their feet upon another stepping stone which leads across the river and separates the underclassman from the Seniors, 142 students entered Floyd County High School as Juniors.

Class rings, a high point in the lives of Juniors, were given out in December. They symbolize the steps we have taken.

Looking toward the future, Juniors took the first step in preparation. On October 22, fifty-four Juniors took the PSAT and MSQT Test, a preview of College Boards that will come in April.

Some of the activities this year included taking part in the homecoming ceremonies, Juniors receiving second place for their Autumn scene, and the Junior-Senior Prom.

Juniors took many necessary steps this year that will prepare them to follow into the tracks of Seniors next year.

The sophomores moved into their new roles with a splash this year. One hundred seventy-one tenth graders walked through the doors on the first day of school determined to have fun while learning. Senior assemblies and Senior clubs offered them challenges and opportunities to show their talents. Throughout the year, sophomores grew mentally, spiritually, physically and emotionally.

Yes, sophomores do have fun.

Sophomores Swim Along with Life

Princess Rhonda Alderman enters half-time activities on the arm of Mike Mitchell.

As the 1977 class began their freshman year, they discovered that 74-75 was a year largely of decisions. The students found that they were faced with deciding whether they should take the vocational stream or the academic road. Making decisions that affected their future became a challenge as they continued their journey.

As we entered the ninth grade we were faced with new horizons such as different clubs, football and basketball teams, and cheerleading squads.

Though we were new to these phases of school life, some entered into these activities with fevor while others did not want to become involved. In an effort to create more entrest the class officers and SCA representatives met and outlined action to improve involvement of the total class in activities. Suggestions included the planning and performing of skits and programs and planning of activities for the entire class to participate in.

The eighth grade band students are hard at practice on the field for an upcoming game.

On August 26 of this year, two hundred some eighth grade students entered the halls of Floyd County High School filled with excitement of years to come. The beginning of the rushing waters of life for these students was the beginning of the five years towards their graduation. A beginning for all of FCHS was the Eighth Grade Band, better known as the Senior Band. This will mark an everlasting stepping stone the water passed in their lifetime.

Mr. Peak, Mr. Semones and Mr. Jennings, aided by their capable secretaries coordinate all school activities and carry out school board policies. A great deal of time is spent listening to complaints and striving to solve the problems of students. They look not only at immediate problems but foresee and make long range plans. Feeling that they can best meet the needs of students and faculty by knowing existing needs, they work for a close relationship with all. Teachers Caught in the Act of Being Themselves

Teachers also use their lunch period for relaxation and the exchange of pleasant conversation.

Is this really the Mr. Wimmer and Mrs. Quesenberry we all know?

We students, in later years of looking back on our school days and the faculty, recall our teachers who have helped us form our lives. They gave us the help and guidance we needed to help us in our pathway to the future, to face it as intellectual, mature people. We realize they're just "people" too. Reminders of the Algebra test we failed, late arrivals, and being sent to the office are related to our teachers. Yet, there are also good times to remember, like the extra points we needed to make an A, free periods, the praise and assurance on our work and abilities when we most needed it are all part of the reminiscences we have of the role our teachers played in our life.

Mrs. Pauley and Mrs. Martin take time out to discuss the events of the day.

Mr. Peak, Mr. Semones, and their wives enjoy the '74 Junior and Senior Prom.

Pensive, yet amused, Sandra Mills watches the situation closely.

People Behind The Scenes: Keeping The School Together!

Should we or shouldn't we? Mabel Via and Elvin Vest wonder whether they should break up the fight down the hall or let the best person win.

Each day at 11:00 the lunch-room staff sees the beginning of the end of long hard hours of work. With the start of A lunch, a torrent of people flood the cafeteria and continue through C lunch with only short breaks. With soaring prices and shrinking budgets, the staff does a fine job of providing a nutritious Grade A lunch, at forty-five cents, a bargain in these belt tightening days.

However, they aren't the only ones who work hard. The custodians put in many hours daily. Staying busy with their miscellaneous jobs they manage to stay in touch with the students.

A hardworking staff, Joel Williams, Jimmy Thomas, Ruby Agnew and Mabel Via.

Levie Thompson, Louise Hylton, Edith Hylton, Virginia Spence, Mildred Kidd, Bernease Shortt, and Gertude Sowers, Manager.

Sweeping is one of the many duties of Mr. Dulaney.

ACADEMICS — BAND — CHOR — ASSEMBLIES — CLUBS — SPECIAL ACTIVITIES — ADS

ACTIVITIES

Floyd County, whether we like it or not, is a fairly isolated microcosm. Most students have to rely upon school oriented activities for knowledge, training and entertainment. Not only is the county lacking other sources of activity for youth, but the area is rural and wide spread. Therefore, the only time many friends can socialize is at school functions. However, with the exception of sports, clubs offer the only chance to learn to work with people in situations outside the classroom.

Education is more than just learning fundamental skills, it involves using skills and knowledge in living.

Becky Beran

ACADEMICS

This was a year for self study. In connection with this important event, the following philosophy was written.

The purpose of Floyd County High School in collaboration with the community, parents, and churches is the development of responsible citizens in a democratic society to participate in a complex and rapidly changing world. To become a responsible citizen, a student must cultivate habits of self-discipline, a respect for country, and an appreciation of moral and spiritual values.

The school must provide opportunities for each student to develop to his greatest potential. These opportunities should be commensurate with the student's abilities, interests, needs, and ambitions. The school must make available a curriculum which will help students to become competent in the fundamental academic skills and qualified for employment or further education. Successful learning experiences must be provided in order for students to acquire a positive and realistic self image to practice sound habits of personal health, and to develop aesthetic values necessary for enjoying a complete life.

Job preparation is given a great deal of attention at FCHS.

During her last year at FCHS, Mrs. Virginia Altizer prepares her Advanced Math students for higher education. Most of these students have studied under Mrs. Altizer for four years and are, therefore, a special class to her.

1974-75 A Time For Self Evaluation and Improvement

An opportunity to sing in a choir is important for those who have the interest and ability.

Denton finds a quiet moment to study and keep abreast of homework.

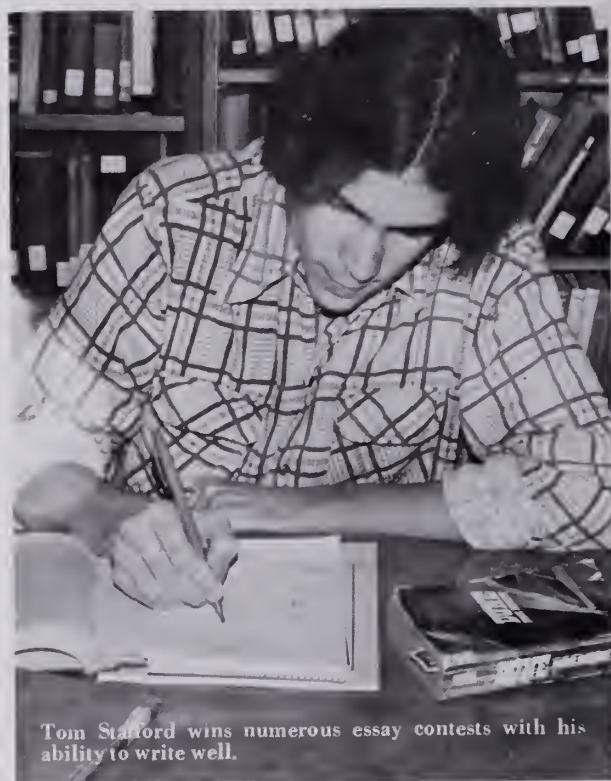

Carrying a quantity of reports to be filled out, Mrs. Nancy Roop, Steering Committee Chairman for the Self-Study, starts to a faculty meeting.

The purpose of Floyd
County High School is to help students to . . .

. . . Become Competent In The Fundamental Academic Skills; . . .

Graphing in Geometry class is a step in the learning process of mathematics. Wendell Quesenberry goes to the board to illustrate the point.

Tom Stafford wins numerous essay contests with his ability to write well.

"Oh, No! my head will kill me if this experiment doesn't work again," says David West.

. . . Become Qualified For Further Education . . .

Well read students are ahead of the game when going on to higher education. Paperback books are a motivation for students to read more.

Sandra, Steve, Robert and Martha compare the oscillations of a large spring and a small spring in Physics.

Debbie Martin explains a problem in Advanced Math as Mrs. Altizer stands ready to assist if needed.

. . . Be Qualified For Employment . . .

Whether learning a trade or preparing to design and construct their own garments, students become qualified through working in Home Ec.

Dirt, grease and oil. All a part of learning the trade.

Typing is a skill needed by all, but when proficiency is acquired there is a job waiting.

Mechanics is an open field and Lester Weddle plans to make the most of it.

Playing in mud may seem child's play, but Joseph Argabright and others in Building Trades find it necessary part for laying bricks.

. . . To Participate As A Responsible Citizen . . .

Learning the responsibility of being a good citizen by voting, the Government class students conducted a mock election. Here, Robert Weeks registers a student voter.

Helping those less fortunate is a valuable experience for the Jr. Tri.Hi. Y. girls. As they travel to Joy Ranch to share gifts and love with orphans, the girls receive joy and share meaningful experiences.

. . . To Develop a Positive And Realistic Self-Image . . .

A winner in the school forensics contest, Linda Whitsett shows great poise as she reads for the video-tape.

A dream of most girls is to become a homemaker. Preparing for this, Janet, Carlotta and Janie work in Home Ec which means cleaning along with more fun jobs.

Seeking help from Mr. Mannon, Guidance Counselor, George Akers develops a realistic goal for his future.

. . . Exhibit a Responsibility For the Enhancement of Beauty in his Daily Life; and

Examination time for advanced art students meant preparing an art exhibit of their accomplishments the first semester. Guests were invited to tour the art room.

Exercise daily in physical education classes and lots of running prepares students for the stamina needed in playing a game of basketball.

Exercise and relaxation would be needless unless a healthy diet is kept. Students have milk and nutritious food available for lunch each day.

Students often find themselves rushing from one thing to another and finding it difficult to relax. Here, exercises which are designed for relaxation are shown.

1974-75 — A Time For Self Evaluation

Roger Hollandsworth finds the information in Guidance interesting and helpful.

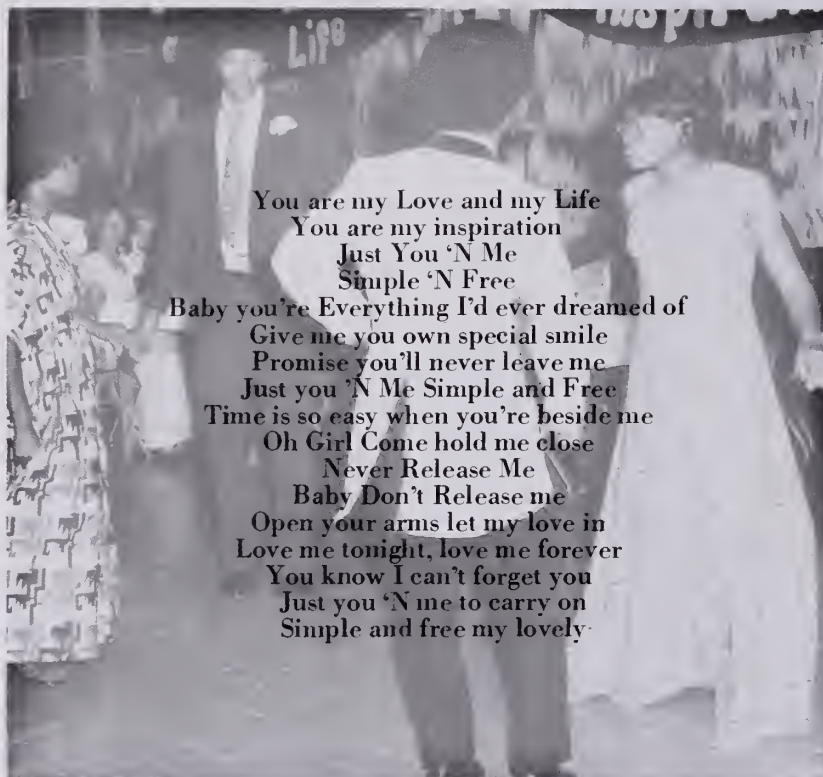

Lab time in science finds students busily searching for new answers.

An exciting new experience for Sidney Nichols and other boys this year is learning to sew. Sidney's first construction is a vest.

How do we evaluate our school? Are we moving with the current, standing still, or making waves? Old currents flow into new channels of experience, yet still flow through the old channels and come together into one body of water. This is life at FCHS.

JUST YOU

You are my Love and my Life
 You are my inspiration
 Just You 'N Me
 Simple 'N Free
 Baby you're Everything I'd ever dreamed of
 Give me you own special smile
 Promise you'll never leave me
 Just you 'N Me Simple and Free
 Time is so easy when you're beside me
 Oh Girl Come hold me close
 Never Release Me
 Baby Don't Release me
 Open your arms let my love in
 Love me tonight, love me forever
 You know I can't forget you
 Just you 'N me to carry on Simple and free my lovely

With anxious anticipation, Juniors looked forward to transforming the cafeteria into a "lover's lane" complete with brick walls and colorful flowers. For days before the dance, Juniors found themselves busily making a reality of the plans they had worked on for months. The Prom offered more than just an opportunity for Seniors and Juniors to dress formally, it was a night of a life time that will never be lived again and the greatest number of students to ever attend a prom at FCHS attest to this.

QUEENS OF FCHS

December finds Brenda Boothe reigning as Snow Queen.

Beautiful girls add zest to any school and FCHS had its share of them this year.

Homecoming is always an exciting event at our school and this year was no different. Three senior girls were chosen by their class to be the Homecoming queen and two honor attendants. It was not until halftime and the beginning of the festivities that Wanda Roop discovered that her class had voted her as Homecoming Queen with Vicky Walters and Norma Hatcher as her honor attendants.

In December, the senior class chose Brenda Boothe to be Snow Queen and represent FCHS in the annual Christmas parade.

New Assembly Honors Our VFW's

FCHS held a special Veterans Day assembly to commemorate the courage and patriotism of all the men and women who have served in the United States armed services.

The Flag Corps presented "colors" to symbolize the American flag. The band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Taps."

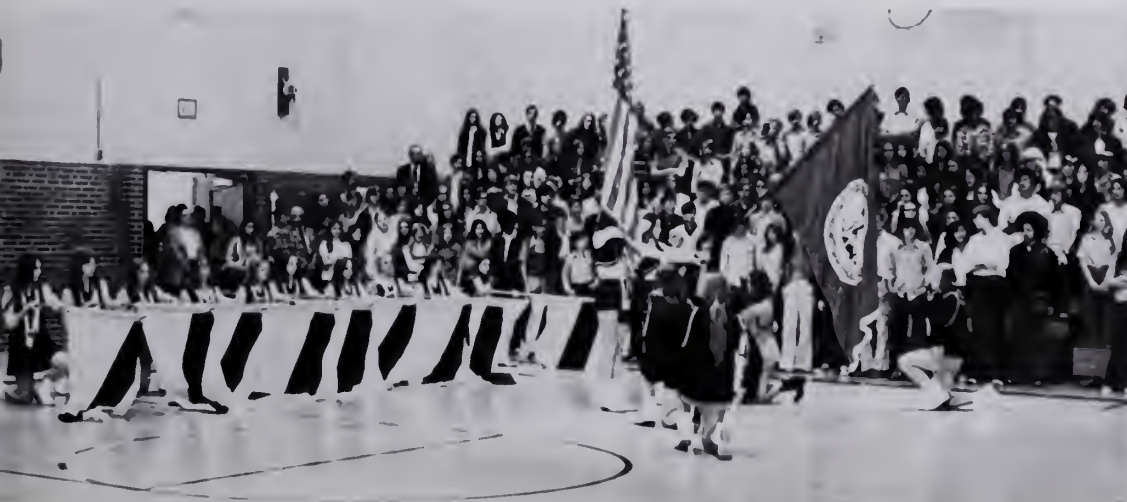

In December, students who had been high magazine salesmen received their prizes in an assembly. This year's magazine campaign was the most successful ever, overshooting the goal of $5,000 in the sale of subscriptions to $6,574.67. Nineteen of the twenty-nine homerooms went over their goal of $175 with all eighth grade and senior homerooms exceeding the goal.

The five top salesmen were awarded with cash awards and prizes. Each student that sold $200, or more in sales of subscriptions received a G.E. portable radio with ear-phones and battery.

The highlight of the assembly was the drawing for a RCA 12" black and white TV, courtesy of Bob's Radio and TV Service. Vivian McAlexander received this as an early Christmas present.

The Flag Corps perform the "Presentation of Colors," in salute to our nation at the Veteran Day Assembly.

Bonnie Shelor, DAB award recipient, presents her award-winning speech.

The U Va. players present one of the more humorous scenes from "Gammer Gurton's Needle," a sixteenth century comedy.

Floyd County High School had more assemblies this year. These assemblies varied. Some were mainly to provide entertainment, some were educational, and others were to recognize students for their accomplishments.

The Bob Brown Science Circus provided education in science as well as entertainment for the student body.

Forty new members were tapped into the Beta Club during a special assembly. These new members must have maintained a 90 or above average and have a commendable attitude.

Perhaps the assembly most enjoyed by students was the presentation of "Gammer Gurton's Needle," by the Virginia Players. This play was an adapted version of the popular sixteenth century play and kept the audience in stitches.

Various Assemblies Reward Students, Honor Veterans, and Provide Entertainment

Big sister Pam Strickland waits with growing impatience for little sister Cappy Harmon to coax her pet dog into the car in one of the more humorous scenes, "Doggone."

Performing for an audience was an important learning experience for the drama class this year. After learning the various aspects of dramatics through daily experiences in class, the members were ready to present a play to the student body.

Not only did the class present entertaining skits, they wrote their own scripts and were their own choreographers and costume designers.

A fast pace was kept throughout the production with one skit after enough which kept the audience in a state of delight. A+ to the dramatic class for a very entertaining hour.

"Hanes underwear makes me feel good all under," states Sherry Young.

Karen Wimmer provides laughs for the audience with the "Pepto Bismal Commercial" take off.

D R A M A T I C S

In the most dramatic moment of the play, Robert Weeks almost carries out the revenge.

The one-act play was of a serious nature. The play, entitled "The Storm," written by Donald Peyton, involves Jeff, a guilt-ridden young man (played by Ralph Mitchell) and his wife, (played by Sue Osborne) who have moved to a mountain cabin. The snow reminds him of a car accident that he caused which killed a woman (played by Pam Strickland) and her daughter (played by Sherri Young). The woman's husband (played by Robert Weeks) has been seeking Jeff in order to get revenge for his family's death. The climax is reached where the woman and girl burst in and convince the Hunter to leave.

One highlight of the performance was the set. Assistant Director Cappy Harmon and Set Designer Dee Dee Robbins assisted by the drama class turned the FCHS auditorium into a realistic mountain cabin.

In desperation, Sue Osborne clutches Ralph and brings him back to reality.

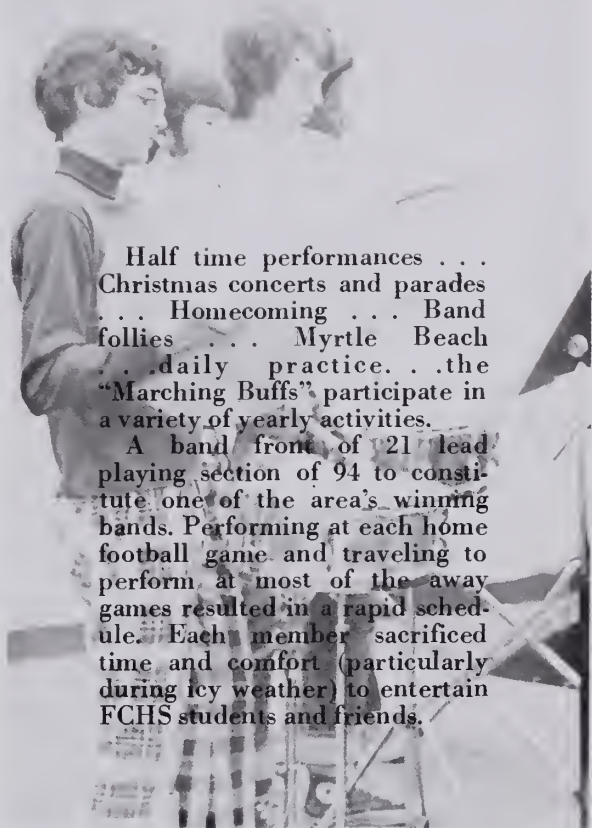

Intensity builds as the young couple fears for their lives and that of their child.

NEW EIGHTH GRADE MARCHING BAND

A new director, a new band. The new Varsity Band of eighth graders resulted in more participation by students in music. The small performing band soloed in pre-game activities at football games. In addition to performances, students gained valuable instruction and practice in a small band situation to prepare them for the Marching Buffs.

Students Try Out For Concord

The advanced Choir of FCHS was very versatile, their selection of music ranged from popular to classical. A program of pop music was performed at the Harvest Festival which was a first for the choir. The choir also participated in the Christmas assembly. They provided background music and led the audience in carols. Performances included the Christmas and Spring concerts, the baccalaureate and graduation exercises for the class of '75.

Six people were chosen to attend the all regional chorus in Lynchburg. Four of those were eligible for All-state chorus. Composed of upper classmen, the choir did not have to spend time on basic elements but rather devoted their time to the music itself.

Beginning Choir Performs in Concert

The beginning choir spent most of their year working on basic fundamentals. They were drilled over and over again on pronunciations, diaphragm usage, reading music, and watching for cues. They learned to sing as a group rather than as individuals. Their first presentation was at the Christmas concert.

THIRTEEN SENIORS FINISH WITH "A" AVERAGES.

With a 97.86 average, Sandra Nester achieves the title of Valedictorian.

Salutatorian Carolyn McGrady finishes high school with a 97.83.

Students maintaining an "A" average: Seated: Carolyn McGrady, Anita Grim, Bonnie Shelor, Ann Tolbert, Carlotta Browning, Sherri Whitlock; Standing: Ray Hill, Joel Shank, Julie Perdue, Elaine Phillips, Phyllis Bower, Sandra Nester, Karen Agee.

A lot of hard work combined with ability led thirteen seniors to finish their five years of high school with a 95 and over average.

In addition to achieving a high grade average, these students were vitally involved in all school activities. Anita Grim served as SCA president in her senior year and played girl's basketball. Carolyn McGrady was co-editor of the Bison and president of the Beta Club and the TRI-HI-Y club. Sandra Nester serves as president of SAE and led the band as drum majorette. Ann Tolbert won honors with her science project.

Two of the girls, Phyllis Bower and Elaine Phillips, kept a home as wives while attending school. Phyllis really kept a busy schedule when she became a mother.

Creative People Find Fellowship in Quill and Scroll

"The streams of life rush onward with people's greed.
Their selfishness and fears all important is the speed
With which one cheats, or causes pain
For most of all one must have the mighty gain."

This is only one of the numerous poems entered in the creative writing contest which is sponsored by the Quill and Scroll. Each year, the club sponsors one contest each semester. The purpose of the club is to promote creativity among students at FCHS. The club is a honor club for students who have worked with some phase of journalism.

Yes, Dillard posed for this picture but every night found him working on the float.

Beta Club members Kay Sowers and Elaine Phillips are in charge of the school store each morning relieving the school bookkeeper for other duties.

Tissues, tissues, and more tissues were the order of the day as the Beta Club constructed the Snow Queen float in December. This job required many hours of work — physical and mental — as sponsor, H.E. Keith, and members created a rotating ball and columns. Snow made working difficult but this annual affair was well worth the effort.

Building the float was only one of many activities members were involved in as they sponsored a blood drive among high school students to spur donor-ship in the county. They financed a day camp for a child who needed special education.

Daily activities required participation and hard work from all members as they raised and lowered the flag and operated the school store.

A highlight of the year was the trip to the Barn Dinner Theater.

The club strived not only to recognize student achievements but to work in close cooperation with other students caught up in the rush of high school life.

Little Old Lady Captivates Little Old Men!

On November 12, members of the R. Gamble See Senior Tri-Hi-Y went on their club trip. At 3:30 the group left by bus destined for Roanoke and the Salem Veteran's Home. Mrs. Rector, music director worked closely with the club members in presenting a program consisting of group songs, dance routines and various other acts. Drama teacher Lyle Wimmer did his bit for the program with his comic presentation of an old lady and his portrayal of her eccentric personality was a huge success. The home-making department prepared refreshments. The night was enjoyed by all and the club hopes to return next year.

Other activities of the club were Tri-Hi-Y Sunday at the Floyd Presbyterian Church in October where club members gathered together with Doctor See, for whom the club was named. The club sponsored a child in Tawian and was responsible for the Easter Assembly.

The Tri-Hi-Y through activities, programs, and the help of Mrs. Nester is a stepping stone we cross in order to bring Christ into the school and community. By doing so, we enrich our lives and those of others.

Hi-Y Club Gives Christmas Food Baskets to Needy Families

The fact that the Hi-Y is one of the smaller clubs in the school does not detract from their working. In fact, it means the members and sponsor have a closer relationship than the larger clubs.

To the average FCHS student, the Hi-Y is most visible giving invocations at home football and basketball games but that is only one activity.

In keeping with their purpose of promoting Christian spirit in the home, community, and school, the Hi-Y each year gives a monetary gift to the United Fund.

Christmas was the highlight of the year when the club gave a food basket to needy families. This gesture promoted the spirit of goodwill as well as brought cheer and warmth of Christmas into the lives and hearts of those involved. Another high spot was the planned social trip to a ballgame.

Sharing Christmas Enriches Lives of Junior Tri-Hi-Y Members

Preparing for the trip to Joy Ranch means getting the right name on the right gift.

Despite the rush and turmoil of the Christmas season, time was found on December 19 for members of the Junior Tri-Hi-Y to go to the Joy Ranch Children's Homes at Hillsville for their annual club project.

Before the trip, the girls drew names from a list of the children's names, gifts were purchased according to the child's age.

The club presented a collection of Christmas Carols and encouraged the children to join in.

Gifts were given to the children and the club members played a number of games with them. Giving a few hours of their time in sharing Christmas with less fortunate children was rewarding.

The club is composed of girls from the eighth and ninth grades. Another activity of the club is the annual community service project in the spring. By sharing themselves, they helped others caught up in currents of despair to remember God and his love.

Active in many phases of school and community life, the FBLA was an outstanding club this year. Students were enrolled in either business classes or block programs and much club activity was correlated with skills learned in class.

In a money making project, FBLA members painted the window at Blue Ridge Cafe during a Halloween Contest and walked away with first prize and $25.

The club sponsored the March of Dimes drive and a County Teacher's Tea. In addition, they entered numerous contests offered through their affiliation with other Business Clubs. Yes, the FBLA was an active club with members benefitting in many ways.

F.F.A. Goes Co-Ed

Floyd County is still very much an agricultural area as is evidenced by the fact that the F.F.A. with 157 members is the largest club in the school. As with other organizations, the F.F.A. is changing with the times. Perhaps the most obvious change is the addition of girls to the club role.

The girls, Venda Radford and Myra Nolen, are in Agriculture I. Mr. Keith stated, "There is definitely a place for girls in the F.F.A. Girls can be an asset to agriculture, and F.F.A. are proving it throughout the state."

Fielding teams in forestry, mechanics, dairy and livestock judging, along with public speaking and tractor driving competitions made our chapter a complete success in the New River Federation and on the district level.

Keeping student life flowing smoothly is the job of the SCA. Serving as the compromisers between students and administration was one job of many for SCA representatives. The SCA initiated several projects this year. They sold spirit buttons during football and basketball season.

They were also in charge of the Christmas tree in the lobby and a festive bulletin board to brighten the main office. Other projects included hiring bands for the sockhops, ordering flags for each classroom, and sponsoring the annual magazine campaign, which was highly successful with students surpassing the goal.

In an effort to improve attendance, the SCA launched a new program. During 8 week periods, students who missed two days or less got to see a movie at half price or free if they weren't absent a day. Some of the movies were "Brian's Song" and "Bullet."

Torture Was Outlawed — But . . .

New Members Ronald Hollandsworth, Matt Stiles (left) and Tim Boone (right) find that to become a Varsity Club member requires a little bit of charm and a lot of courage.

The Varsity Club is a club composed of young men who have earned a letter in a varsity sport such as football, basketball, baseball, tennis, track, and golf.

The club works hard throughout the year to promote the sports programs, to create good sportsmanship and to initiate enthusiasm in the student body.

The major activity of the club is the Athletic Banquet in May. At the banquet letters and trophies are presented to the most valuable and the most improved players in the varsity sports.

Membership is not entirely based on lettering in a sport. A member must truly want to belong to the club and must go through an initiation by old members.

The club works on the upkeep of the athletic equipment and sponsors fund-raising activities to accomplish this.

The trophy case in the lobby is a project of the Varsity Club — honoring any student who makes an all-district team.

Typing, Filing, Reshelving Services of the Library Club

They told Lisa Kitts there would be days like this but . . . club initiation is just too much.

To some students, the members of the Library club are just those ever present people who make out those overdue book fines (smiling all the time.) While this is one function of the club, it isn't the only one.

Club members helped in many phases of library work — checked out books and magazines, typed and filed book cards, reshelved books, designed and put up bulletin boards and ran various errands. This helped free the librarian to make the library more efficient for all students. It was with the help of club members, that the Library served the students of FCHS so smoothly.

One of a limited number of clubs open to eighth and ninth grade students, the Junior Science Club offers members and opportunity for socializing as well as promoting greater scientific knowledge. In conjunction with this, the club programs have guest speakers and programs on a variety of topics.

Saturday, December 14, both Junior and Senior Science Clubs went on a combined field trip to the planetarium at Chapel Hill, North Carolina. This was the Jr.

Science Club's major event for the '74-'75 years. Participating members enjoyed the program (even after hearing pickle jokes on the bus all the way there) and returned with a greater knowledge of the heavens.

The Jr. Science Club helped promote the annual FCHS science fair by offering scholarships to interested students for financing projects and by awarding monetary prizes to the winners.

Field Trip to Planetarium Highlights Year

Beginning with the Bob Brown Science Circus in the fall and continuing through the local and regional science fairs in the spring, the Senior Science Club had another busy year.

Along with the Jr. Science Club, the club members enjoyed a field trip to Moorehead Planetarium.

Plans were made and carried out to help county elementary schools with their science fairs and projects.

Hours were spent by the club members on their own projects and for several members these hours paid off in awards on the local and regional level.

'74-'75 was a time for learning and helping others to learn and appreciate the world of science.

Checking the sundial, Sandra Perdue and Karen Lawrence get the correct time.

Thoroughly engrossed, Senior Science members Mark Via, Gale Hylton, and Gino Williams study tablets at Chapel Hill.

Athletics Attracts Many Girls as Proved by 100 + Membership

Even though this was only the club's second year, the GAA was one of the school's largest clubs. The members were active on all levels of athletics such as being on the varsity teams, and playing intramurals.

The GAA members made up the majority of participants in the intramural programs. In addition to competitive games, the club held playdays for its members.

During the December meeting, members of the club, representing each class in school, presented a play depicting a Christmas theme. Points toward their letters were awarded to the winners in the contest. Santa Claus was a popular part of the plays.

While the main purpose of the club was to maintain a well rounded physical fitness program, members also learn to laugh and play together.

A club as large as GAA needs two Santas — Betty Turman and Loretta Simpkins.

This year brought several changes to what was formerly the Future Teachers of America. One of the most obvious was our new name Student Action for Education (SAE).

Along with the new name, we expanded the club's goal to include all fields concerned with education, although the main emphasis is still on teaching as a career.

At the beginning of the year, all members filled out special interest forms, and with these in mind, programs were planned to meet the individual interests. Some of the programs included guest speakers on music education, business, kindergarten and field trips to a special education workshop and a kindergarten.

In the spring, book scholarships were awarded to graduating members who planned to attend a college or other field of higher education.

"Rushing" is the only word to describe this past year for the Bison staff. Many problems, such as lost pictures from the photographer, poor weather conditions and numerous re-takes were faced by the staff making deadlines harder to meet and after-school working hours plentiful.

With a relatively inexperienced crew, everyone learned to write copy, sell ads, work layouts, and organize class and club photography, as well as become "worry" experts. Few students are aware of the many long hours of work required to finish one page.

Cooperation and the ability to find humor in all situations paid off and the entire staff had an enjoyable experience recording the year's memories to compile the '74-'75 Bison. Meeting deadlines and learning new techniques were taken in stride as everyone worked and learned together. It is amazing how various people responsible for a section can bring together and complete a book miraculously in order after mass confusion.

A delegation of five attended the fall VHSL Workshop in Charlottesville in order to compare their work with other schools and learn techniques to improve this year's annual.

Mrs. Pugh and co-editors Carolyn McGrady and Pat Keith held the staff together and supervised the work of each section as everyone strove to complete a finished product to remember the passing year.

'74-'75 was one of the best years for the County Crier as a group of "green" journalism students, four experienced workers and a new sponsor worked hard to prepare each issue.

A determined staff put in many long hours of work both in and out of school, learning the fundamentals of good journalism and basic history as well as the 'do's and don'ts of a good journalist.

As always, the staff discovered that Crier work was much more than writing stories. For the first issue, much preparation was needed, but the new journalists rapidly picked up the basics such as layout techniques and headlines fitting.

The current swept them along rapidly as everyone watched deadlines come and pass, meeting each with much effort of the combined staff. Co-editors James Weeks and Susan Tatum assisted the staff in learning the ropes of high school journalism as they and the sponsor, Mrs. Wood, tried to keep the paper together.

Projects Promoting Recognition of Art Keep Members Busy

The Art Club with a membership of fourteen is a relatively small but active club. The club is not nationally or state connected but a local club formed by interested students.

The purpose of the club is to expose art students to new forms of art that sometimes require more time than the normal class period gives. It also provides a place where art students can discuss and exchange ideas about the arts whether they be crafts or fine arts.

Working on this theme, the club held several workshops. A workshop presenting the methods of tie dyeing was a favorite among the club members. Mrs. Pauley said the students were carrying the techniques into their class work. Another workshop on working with plaster was planned.

The club members went to the Blacksburg Arts and Crafts Show where they picked up many new and useful ideas.

The club held several art shows during the year. Art work by the students was displayed at the Bank of Floyd and at FCHS art show in the spring.

Another activity of the club was compiling a book of pen and ink drawings for the library.

The club strove to enrich the lives of all students through a greater awareness of the arts.

First writing then typing material for the club, Susan Tatum and Susan McClure find that small clubs require more work for individual members.

C'EST LA VIE — THAT'S LIFE

One of several honor clubs at FCHS, the French Honor Society is exclusively for students who have excelled in the study of the French language. The club is affiliated with other chapters across the United States.

The club planned a joint meeting with a Blacksburg French Club in the spring. At the meeting, the members exchanged knowledge of the culture and language of France, as well as making new friends.

The club got in the Christmas spirit by giving a fruit basket to an elderly couple.

Learning more about the French culture was accomplished by serving French dishes at club meetings, visiting a French restaurant, and by a field trip to an old estate in North Carolina.

Knowledge of France and old world culture enriched the lives of club members and, for a little while, slowed down the pace of life.

The fleurs-de-lis represent the French nation and the French Honor Societies of the United States. This emblem is symbolic of a lily or iris.

Year round, the Neighborhood Youth Corp is a very active club. Members of this federally supported organization receive a combination of work experience and a pay check as they help keep county schools running smoothly.

Working before, after and during school hours, NYC members could be seen typing, cleaning, running errands, grading papers, serving lunches and taking up lunch and ice cream money.

Since the NYC emphasizes career training, programs at the monthly meeting included guest speakers from area colleges and industries. A field trip was also taken to community colleges.

Upward Bound Members Consider The Future

College is not an impossible dream and neither is finding the one just right for one's own particular needs. Members in the Upward Bound Club learned more about colleges in which they were interested and might attend in the future. The organization strived to reach students who desire academic, social, and spiritual enrichment.

Several guests were invited to speak about various colleges and the different careers available to students. In addition, club members visited area colleges in order that they might familiarize themselves with the various opportunities available in local educational facilities.

Through becoming aware of educational opportunities and how one might acquire them, members began preparing themselves for the next important step in their lives.

The Home Economics Related Occupations Club involves members in vocational preparation, and a good attitude toward the world of work. Leadership ability and self-confidence are gained through individual involvement and group participation.

A variety of programs including speakers from industry and business acquainted members with work situations. Activities undertaken by the club included preparing refreshments for dances and school functions, and making garments and gifts for families.

Searching For Direction As They Plan Their Future

Reaching Out to Others

Homemaking is so important a preparation for living that it is our very reason for being Future Homemakers of America and students in home economics education. Our FHA activities relate to classroom learning but go beyond to the community and home.

Our theme this year "Reaching Out to Others" has inspired many members to find in their community a family that needs supportive care in their homes. One group of industrious members cleaned windows and the yard for a dear grandmother. FHA members are also using their sewing skill to make gifts for a day care group, and special request for the VA Hospital.

These activities foster opportunities for learning to make decisions and provide experiences which help us look confidently toward our roles as young men and women with homes and perhaps families.

FHA programs provide instructional as well as social opportunities. Club members square dance at close of regular meeting.

Defending our Environment

Raking a fire line is good practice for Doug Sewell, Justin Quesenberry, Barry Moran and Earnest Hylton.

Keep Virginia Green is the theme of the KVG club which was organized to help keep forest fires in our part of Virginia to a minimum. The team is always kept on their toes and ready to aid other firefighters in case of a forest fire.

It was the job of the crew leaders to act as "go-betweens" by telling the crew what the forest rangers want done and seeing that it was carried out. The crew was trained in the methods of fighting fires. KVG members enhance their own lives by protecting life and their environment.

VICA pulls it all Together!

The Vocational Industrial Clubs of America is a club designed for students enrolled in a vocational trade class such as Industrial Maintenance or Building Trades. It is a club working to prepare members for a productive career after graduation. It gives members a chance to exchange and discuss the problems facing them and the community and work toward a successful life for themselves and others.

The club sponsors many competitive contests during the year. In doing so the club gives students a chance to practice the skills they have learned in class, thus preparing them for the swiftly moving life of the future.

Through rain and snow student bus drivers continue, braving all dangers, be they paper airplanes, pennies that have wings, or even flying chewing gum. Speaking words of reassurance to amazed first graders became a habit for many of the student drivers.

Dedication and patience were necessary for driving a bus does become tiring and discouraging. The rewards were there, too, the satisfaction in a job well done, the smiles and greetings of the little children, and the paychecks.

Keeping the busses maintained and ready to go at all times was another part of the drivers' and Mr. Whitlock's job.

Through Flying Objects and Bad Weather, Nothing Stops the Bus Drivers

Above Left: Upkeep of the busses is an important aspect for student drivers John Dickerson, Charles West, and Kenneth Cox. Above Right: Bus drivers find there is more to driving than meets the eye at this convention. Right: The arrival of evening busses spells joy for most students.

Old currents flow into new channels of experience yet still flow through the old channels.

The great bus made by the seniors for the Magazine Rally.

The camera catches Mr. Marshall with his orange boots — a sure sign of a test.

The waters of Little River flow onward through obstacles.

Jayne Carr saw the camera but didn't have time to avoid it.

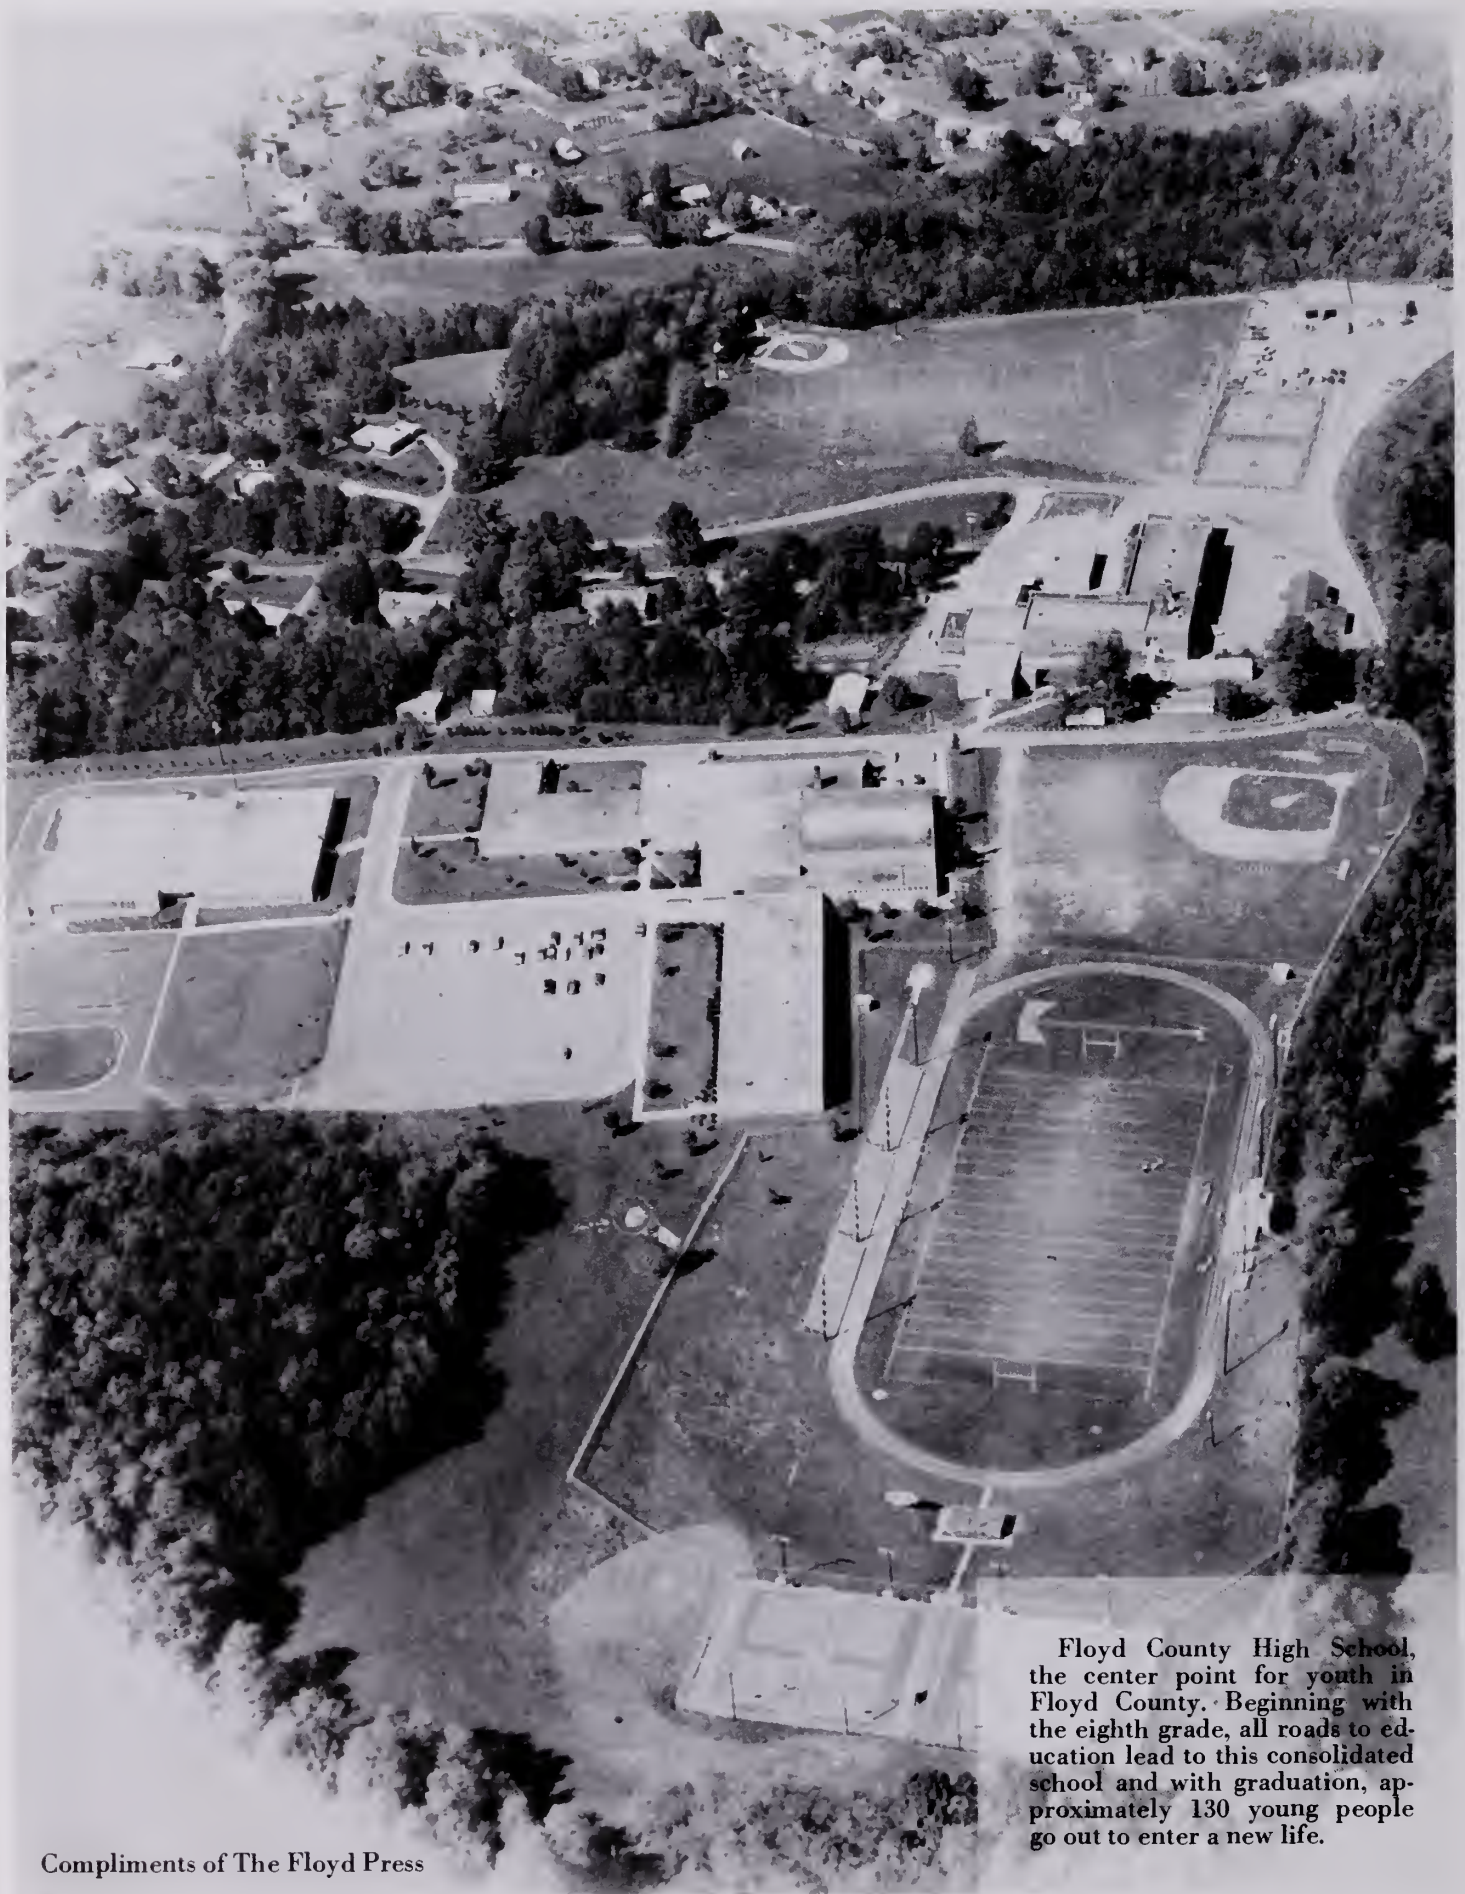

As tension builds, Coach Shull signals players on floor.

"Only twenty minutes to go."

. . . and come together into one body of water.
This is life at FCHS.

Compliments of The Floyd Press

Floyd County High School, the center point for youth in Floyd County. Beginning with the eighth grade, all roads to education lead to this consolidated school and with graduation, approximately 130 young people go out to enter a new life.
